To our friends and associates at Marlin Steel:

We at Acadia Windows & Doors would like to take this opportunity to congratulate you and your team as you close in on 1000 days without a lost time accident. By now, safety has become an inseparable part of your corporate culture. You notice immediately when an electrical cord is missing its ground plug. It's readily apparent when a machine guard is loose, or when there's an unsafe condition on the plant floor. Your team moves quickly to clean up spills and debris.

You've undoubtedly noticed when a character in a TV show or commercial isn't wearing proper PPE. You've also noticed when you've seen dignitaries at construction sites without hard hats. You now wear hearing protection when cutting the lawn, and safety glasses when doing projects around the house. That's because thinking safely is now a part of how you do business, and how you live your lives. Safety is a 24 hour a day job, but it carries 24 hour benefits, too.

Keep up the good work as you continue to add to the number of days worked safely. You, your co-workers and your families all benefit when you put safety first. Remember, "A Safer You is a Safer Me."

Best regards,
