The level of economic uncertainty today, much of it hour by hour, means businesses need answers. There is no text book to guide us or no previous single experience to tell us how to proceed. What we do have is the collective knowledge and insights of leaders of business, education and government, who like you, are continuously assessing the situation. WHAT'S NEXT? is a community discussion that defines the economic and business issues keeping you up at night and the steps you can take to navigate during turbulent times.
