

The View From Main Street: Drew Greenblatt

January 15th, 2009 by admin

As part of the “Wall Steet to Main Street” series, Global Currents this week speaks with Drew Greenblatt, president of Marlin Steel in Baltimore, Maryland. Greenblatt says Washington should stop funneling huge amounts of assistance into large companies that continue to make mistakes, and into “small companies that add jobs.” He also says the federal government should halt all social security payments and unemployment taxes for companies like Marlin, which manufactures steel wire baskets and other steel products.

<http://globalcurrents.foreignpolicyblogs.com/>